1 The Duckling at the Park

On Saturday morning, Mia went to the park with her Grandad. She carried a red bucket and a small spade. The sun was shining, but the grass was still wet from the rain. Near the pond, Mia spotted a little duckling sitting beside a bench. It looked lost. Grandad stayed close while Mia called the park keeper. The keeper came quickly and gently lifted the duckling into a safe box. Soon, the mother duck waddled over from the pond. The keeper opened the box, and the duckling ran to its mother. Mia smiled. Before they went home, Grandad bought Mia a warm cheese roll from the café. They sat on a bench and watched the ducks swim.
